IOWAN WILL USE BEST SCIENTIFIC FARMING

R. L. BARRETT STUDENT AT AMES AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

BUYS SECTION.

Will Farm Land Near City by Most Improved Methods and Will Break 500 Acres this Year.

R. L. Barrett, a senior student at Ames (Iowa) Agricultural college, was a recent arrival in the city and had purchased a section of land, just west of the Schwabe place, east of the state penitentiary. He was induced to come to Burleigh county by Frank J. Fox, of the Fox Land Company.

Mr. Barrett was accompanied by two other Ames students who will assist him in getting started with his farming of the section. He brought with him one of the best gasoline breaking outfits that was obtainable and plans on breaking at least 500 acres of the farm this spring. He pur- poses to put in a large crop of flax, and will make a big alfalfa field out of the bottom lands. Later on he intends to employ diversified methods and raise cattle, hogs, and corn, and get away from the single crop proposition.

In the fall Mr. Barrett contemplates erecting a set of new farm buildings. These will adjoin the main road running east of Bismarck. Mr. Barrett will return to Ames in June and graduate with his class and will then return to Bismarck and make his permanent home here. Bismarck and Burleigh county are always glad to welcome new arrivals of his calibre and wish him unbounded success in his new venture.

ODD COINCIDENCE WAS RELATED BY CAPT. MARSH

CAPT. ATKINS' STORY OF STEAMER BEING CAPTURED BY GUERRILLAS IN EARLY SIXTIES WAS CORROBORATED BY CAPT. MARSH, WHOSE BOAT WAS ALSO CAPTURED AT SAME POINT IN MISSOURI. CAPT ATKINS WILL STAND WATCH WITH CAPT. MARSH

An interesting coincidence was related to a representative of the Tribune by Capt. Grant Marsh of Bismarck and Capt. C. J. Atkins of Cando, which will be of great interest to the readers of the Tribune.

Capt. Atkins was one of the early pilots on the Missouri river. He made his first trip past the present site of Bismarck in 1863 when he came up on the "Robert Campbell, Jr." from St. Louis to Fort Benton. At that time there was no sign of any habitation where the capital city is now located as that territory was all virgin prairie, the home of the buffalo and the haunt of the Indian. Capt. Atkins told a Tribune reporter Friday evening that while the northern end of the Missouri was dangerous on account of Indians that the southern end was just as dangerous on account of guerillas, and he told of an experience he had had on the steamer "Live Oak."

There was a tombsone aboard the boat consigned to Berlin, Mo. Mr. Atkins who was pilot advised the captain not to land, but the latter did not anticipate any great danger. The boat landed there and no sooner had been made fast to shore than it was boarded by guerillas who robbed all of the passengers and then allowed the boat to proceed up stream. Captain Atkins also said that while his boat had been allowed to go, that another boat had been held up that same day by the guerillas and three men shot to death. It has since developed that the second boat was one on which Capt. Marsh was mate, and the latter verified Capt. Atkins' story and told the story of the second capture by the guerillas.

Capt. Marsh was mate on the "Marcella" and had put out from Waverly, Mo., a short time after the "Live Oak" on which Capt. Atkins was pilot. They had proceeded but a short distance up stream however when they decided to put in at Dovers Landing, a little town only a short distance south of Berlin, Mo., for coal, as there was a small coal mine at that place. As the "Marcella" neared shore there was seen to be several cords of wood ranked up along the beach. This was somewhat unusual, but no suspicion was attached to the incident. However, as soon as the boat was made fast a gang of guerillas, under the same men that had captured Capt. Atkins' boat earlier in the day, sprang out from behind the wood pile where they had been hiding, and with leveled revolvers and rifles compelled all to surrender. They then proceeded to rob the boat and the passengers.

Down south of there four passengers had been shipped aboard the "Marcella" four federal soldiers who were en route home on a furlough. It must be remembered that this occurred early in the sixties and that the Civil war was at its height. Mr. Marsh, who was mate on the "Marcella" had showed the soldiers away in the hold of the boat where they would not be discovered. However some of the passengers on the steamer informed the guerillas that there were some federal soldiers aboard and they were found an taken ashore. One of them was a mere boy, about 18 years of age and his home was in Lexington. So the guerilla leader told him to get out of sight and let him get away. However the other three were lined up on the bank and shot down by the bandits. The "Marcella" was then allowed to proceed.

There is increased interest in this occurrence when it is known that Capt. Atkins met Capt. Marsh in St. Louis in 1866, and has not seen him since that time until Saturday evening when Capt. Marsh came down from Washburn in reply to a telephone call to "come and visit with an old friend." When Capt. Atkins told of his capture by guerillas and also of the misfortune that occurred to the second boat which was captured by the guerillas the same day, Capt. Marsh corroborated his story and there was a great deal of surprise when it developed that he was mate on the second boat. The guerillas who were in the gang were some of Quantrell's band, the organization to which young Jesse James belonged. In the party were Mark Belt, Dave Pool, and formerly a clerk in the employ of Gillan and McDaniel, a Kansas City firm who bought negro slaves and shipped them south to New Orleans.

Capt. Atkins came to North Dakota in 1884 and settled at Cando where he has continued to make his home. He probably more than any other man can tell of the thrilling encounters the old boatmen used to have with warlike parties of the Sioux. He has a bullet in his possession which was fired by a Sioux near the present location of Fort Rice and which struck him in the right side. He will remain in Bismarck for several days and it is Captain Marsh's earnest wish that he will be here long enough to "stand a watch" with him on a trip from Bismarck to Fort Benton so that he may see for himself the vast changes that have taken place in the state since those days of the early sixties.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS WERE NOT SUSPENDED

ATTORNEYS ADVISE THAT JUDGE WINCHESTER DEFER RULING IN CASE.

Court Case Against Messrs Vesperman and Davies Will Come up at Regular May Term of the District Court.

Saturday afternoon Assistant Attorney General C. L. Young, appearing for the state and Judge Edward Eberhard of Fargo, appearing for the county commissioners Vesperman and Davies appeared before Judge Winchester in his rooms at the court house to argue an interesting phase of the case against these two commissioners.

The case arose out of an action which has been brought to oust these two men who have been appointed to three places on the board from office. The attorneys for the state came before the judge on an order to show cause why Messrs Vesperman and Davies should not be suspended from the performance of their official duties during the pendency of the case against them in the district court chambers after they reached the court in fact, Judge Winchester was advised by the attorneys for both sides that it would be better not to rule on this question, and consequently no ruling was made and Commissioners Vesperman and Davies will continue in the performance of the duties until their case is decided in the district court.

The reason for this action on the part of the attorneys is that the court would have been obliged to have decided this interlocutory motion to remove the commissioners from office during the pendency of their case in the district court wholly upon the merits of the case, and this would have meant that the case would have been practically decided at this time before the regular action had been brought. Neither side was prepared to argue the merits of the case and each wanted more time before the case would be heard on its merits. So there will be nothing further done until the action to remove them from office comes up before the court in regular order at the May term.

TWO MORE N. DAKOTA OFFICERS FOR TEXAS

LETTER RECEIVED MONDAY BY ADJUTANT GENERAL FROM WAR DEPARTMENT.

Second Detail from This State to Consist of Medical Corps Officer and an Adjutant.

The adjutant general's department of the state of North Dakota received a letter Monday morning from the War Department announcing that this state was entitled to send two more officers to the mobilization camp at San Antonio for the purposes of instruction. The letter stated that these two officers should be one from the medical corps, of a rank below major and the other to be an adjutant. Thus it is seen that the war department desires to instruct every department of the regiment.

There are two captains of the state medical corps who should be eligible to go to San Antonio. They are Capt. A. McDonald of Valley City and Capt. Sihler of Devils Lake. Capt. McDonald being the senior officer will probably have the choice of the trip. The order did not state whether the adjutant to be sent should be regimental or battalion. Capt. R. A. Thompson of Fargo, however is regimental adjutant and it is very probable that he will have the choice of the trip for this officer. The detail is to report at San Antonio not later than April 25 to relieve the first detail which was sent down.

Now's the time to Go See Busch.

Sunday afternoon representatives of the baseball teams of Bismarck, Mandan, New Salem and Glen Ullin gathered at Mandan and perfected the organization of the "Sixty-three Mile" league. ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO STOP SUNDAY STOWS

ENTIRE FORCE AT GRAND THEATRE PUT UNDER ARREST AND RELEASED

Considerable Damage Done to Theatre Equipment No Complaint was Sworn to up to Noon Hour.

Sunday afternoon Sheriff Frank Barnes, acting under written orders of the state's attorney, so it is said to prevent the show from running and arrest the performers, accompanied by deputy sheriff Ed Barnes and Chief McDonald, and Lieut. Downing, of the police department, who were deputized by the sheriff to assist him, put on a continuous performance at the Grand theatre that was not on the program.

The Grand was packed for the matinee performance and the show was just getting under way when the officers appeared. They were equipped with a large "Helmat" cigarette sizer which they took turn about in holding up in front of the aperture through which the pictures are thrown on the screen from the moving picture machine enclosure. The operator threw the pictures then on the side wall by the use of a mirror and attempted to knock the sign from the hands of the officers. When this was done one of the officers seized the stick and jammed it into the enclosure where the machine was and broke the magazine with a real of pictures and badly damaged the film which is valued by the film company at $200. The lens of the machine is also reported to have been broken, and the machine damaged in such a way that only a new one can replace the damaged one.

When the curtain went up on the first act the officers went down to the stage and Sheriff Barnes leaped into the balcony recently constructed for the use of the singer of illustrated songs, kicked the door in and leaped on the stage, placing manager Temple and the act which was holding the boards under arrest. They were taken to the court house where they were immediately released and they returned at once to the theatre where the other act was just ready to go on. The officers again went down to the stage and broke through the side entrance on the stage and arrested the other act, Manager Temple, the piano player, and the stage manager again. They were again taken to the court house and again given their liberty. They returned to the theatre and completed the performance and in the evening put on the two shows as scheduled.

The large crowd which was present present took a great deal of interest in the additional act but evidently did not agree with the work of the officers as they hissed and hooted them every time they made their appearance and greeted them with cat calls and jibes. The damage done to the theatre and equipment it was stated would amount to between $450 and $500. There was no personal injuries sustained with the exception of a badly injured hand of the stage manager whose thumb was bent backward by one of the officers. It was stated last evening that he will be laid up for a time on account of the sprained thumb which was for a time thought to be broken.

Monday there had been no complaints sworn to before the state's attorney and no arrests have been made. This was the fifth attempt on the part of the local authorities to prevent the Grand Theatre from showing on Sunday.

WENT TO FARGO. Miss Gertrude Leonard left on No. 4 Monday morning for Fargo, where she will spend a few days visiting with friends.

MUNGER'S ORCHESTRA. Munger's Orchestra will furnish the music for the annual grand ball given by the Mandan Fire Department at that city this evening.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Graham entertained a party of eight Sunday evening at dinner at the Hotel McKenzie. The Sunday dinners at the new hotel are rapidly becoming very popular with the social leaders of the capital city.

COMPANY A DRILL. There will be a regular drill of Company A at the armory Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. All members are ordered and warned to be present on time, as the drill will be held outdoors if the weather conditions are favorable.

GAVE DINNER PARTY. Captain Martin, 14th U. S. Inf., was the host at a pleasant dinner party Sunday evening at the Hotel McKenzie. Among the guests were Maj. and Mrs. R. R. Steedman, Maj. Louis Brechemin, Jr., U. S. M. C., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hughes and Capt. Martin.

PREPARING LISTS. The clerks in the office of the county auditor are busy preparing a list of the school lands which will be leased Thursday for the purpose of grazing and raising hay. There is great interest taken in the leasing of these lands as they are a material benefit to some of the farmers in the county.

CAPT. MCKEAN RESIGNED. Capt. A. E. McKean, 1st Inf. U. S. N. G., commanding Co. I of Wahpeton, has sent in his resignation to the adjutant general's office to take effect immediately. Capt. McKean is one of the members of the guard who has always been identified with its welfare. He saw service with the regiment in the Philippines during the insurrection. Business affairs prevented him from devoting sufficient time to the wants of his company and his resignation was the result.

Each manager shall have full charge of all passes and prices of admission to the games at his home town.
The following schedule of games was approved, each team to play nine games away from home and nine on its own diamond. It is noticeable that neither Bismarck nor Mandan will have a game scheduled on the same day, nor will Glen Ullin or New Salem. This will make it possible when there is a game at Mandan for capital city fans to go over and witness it and Mandanites to come over and see it. The same rule applies to games at Glen Ullin and New Salem. The schedule:

- Bismarck at Mandan May 28, July 9, August 2.
- Bismarck at New Salem May 14, June 25, August 6.
- Bismarck at Glen Ullin June 11, July 23, September 3.

FINLAYSON AND FROEMIG ARE UP FOR CONTEMPT

CASE WILL BE HEARD BEFORE JUDGE WINCHESTER TUESDAY MORNING.

Claimed that They Violated Injunctional Order Served to Prohibit Them from Selling Liquor.

Tuesday morning there will come up before Judge Winchester in his chambers at the court house a case against Frank Finlayson and Emil Froemig, charging them with contempt of court. They were arrested Friday evening by Sheriff Barnes and were released under $2,000 bonds to make their appearance before the court Tuesday morning.

Some time ago an injunctional order was served to prohibit Finlayson and Froemig from selling intoxicating liquor under the prohibition law of the state. Local parties have now come in with an affidavit which charges that while the injunctional order was still in force the defendants disregarded it and continued to sell liquor. In case the defendants are found guilty of contempt they may be fined not less than 90 days in jail and $200 and costs or may be fined one year in jail and $1,000 and costs. This is entirely discretionary with the court. Both of the defendants have cases pending against them on a charge of violating the prohibition law.
